RIDING TO HEAVEN ON A CAYUSE

By DOROTHY ISABEL MAYBEE

"The western road goes streaming out to seek the cleanly wild
It pours the city's dim desires towards the undefiled."

Heaven! Where is it? What is it? How does one get there? The tradition has been that the only way a man can reach heaven is by sprouting a pair of snow white wings. With these he may float gently upwards into the Great Beyond where, having satisfied St. Peter at the Pearly Gates, he is admitted to the City whose streets are paved with gold. Here he spends eternity clad in a long white nightgown and plucking a harp.

Now I do believe that without being put to the inconvenience of cultivating wings one can experience the ecstasy now associated with heaven in the novel way suggested by the title of this article—namely by riding through the Rockies on a cayuse—possibly not through a city whose streets are paved with gold, but along a little winding trail strewn with pine needles that leads up among the great peaks of the Rockies. Perhaps you are wondering if a cayuse is some kind of a funicular railway! I can possibly enlighten you by stating that it has four legs and a tail, while its fuel is the grass of the field. Its purpose is somewhat similar to that of your railway — though its seats are not quite so well upholstered in the estimation of that class of riding novice known as the "Tenderseat".

Last summer I knew as much about horses and mountains as the average man knows about the moon above — beautiful from a distance — so I decided to improve my knowledge on both these subjects and hurriedly arranged to go with the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies on their 5-day July excursion into some chosen backways of the mountains.

51 Horses! 36 Riders! the latter a miniature league of nations. I think every one of us had a different home town, a different riding costume and a different brand of cigarettes in our breast pocket. Yet we one and all looked forward (I quite breathlessly) to a real holiday: an opportunity to drop hook and line into one of those sparkling icy streams, to eat bacon and eggs by a crackling camp fire, to sleep like Hiawatha in his Indian teepee with the sweet smell of spruce boughs in our nostrils, and everywhere to see the untouched natural beauty of this glorious country.

Ride 'em Cowboy! Here was an excellent opportunity to sport the cowboy togs I had always secretly yearned to wear. Gay coloured outfits predominated. One gorgeous plaid shirt and check pants, set off by a coat of many colours and socks of more colours still, really was a treat to behold. I bethought me of the chameleon's tragic trip to Scotland, and was glad his relations did not frequent the Rockies. Had they met our little band their wildness would have been assured.

As for horses — they were a grand collection of vari-coloured personalities: platinum blondes, black-eyed susans, freckle-faced fannys, red heads, strawberry roans (the shade of a pinkish pebble — a new one on me) and dapple-grey (I recognized these last as old friends because my nursery rhymes were illustrated at the point where I learned about the "pony whose coat was dapple-grey"). As we chose our mounts I noticed the usual gentlemanly predilection for the blondes. I myself picked out a dusky number who by some equine intuition knew instantly my limitations as a horsewoman. On several occasions during the first day I suddenly experienced the sensation of descending rapidly in an elevator while "Brownie" showed me an excellent imitation of a weak-kneed camel, (not at all the bronco stunt I had anticipated). He always seemed to know a much better way round every tree

TRAIL RIDERS OF THE CANADIAN ROCKIES MONTREAL, QUE.

Mr. L.S Crosby
Banff, Alta

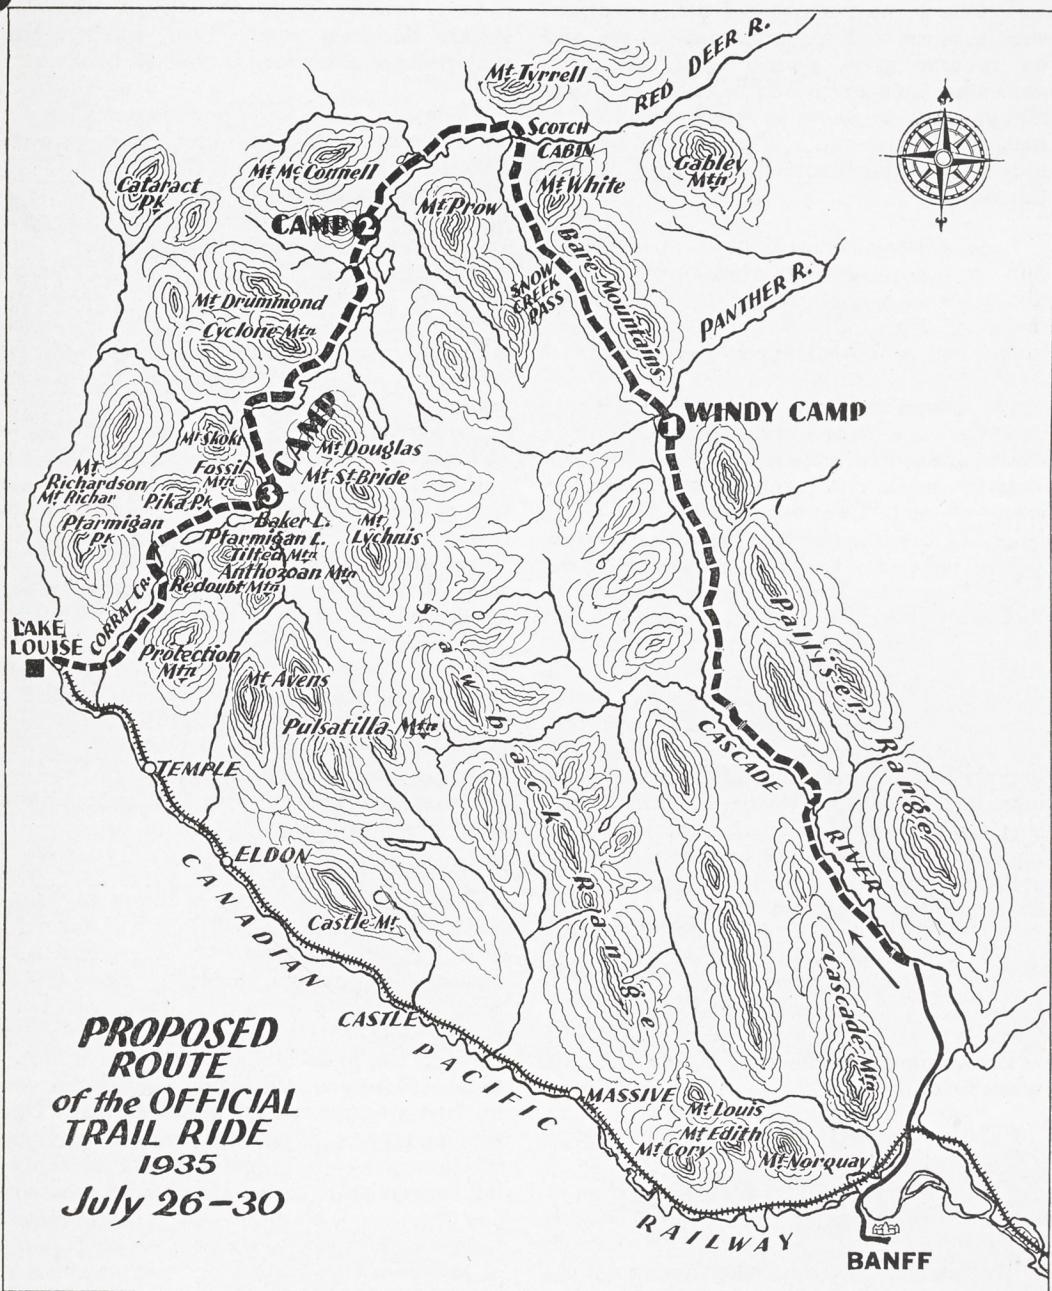

In order to keep pace with the expenses of issuing Bulletins, and of covering stationery and other expenses, the Secretary-Treasurer would appreciate early payment of annual dues by members.

According to our records, the following is the statement of dues in your case:      $6.00 (1932-33-34)

J. M. GIBBON,
Secretary-Treasurer.

We hope that the attendance at the Annual Trail Ride this summer will be large, as the moderate rate of $45 quoted by our outfitters is based on that anticipation. Rate includes motor bus to Chateau Lake Louise or for those who wish to return to Banff. Reservations should be sent in to the Secretary-Treasurer, Room 324, Windsor Station, Montreal, or after July 7 to L. S. Crosby, Western Secretary, Banff, Alberta, Canada.

and stone in our path than I did, but otherwise he never took any advantage of me, and we became great pals. These mountain ponies are amazingly well behaved and they always seem to know in which direction to make the "home run". One of them became so gentle that his rider could be heard singing this refrain:

"My mild eyed cayuse
So gentle and so spruce!
There's none on the trail
Walks more like a snail
Than my mild eyed cayuse"

We know sightseers who are willing to view the world from a great variety of edified conveyances, but by riding a horse with a western saddle one combines the characteristics of all! One experiences the giddy height of the bus top, the seesawing motion of the elephant, and one is constantly reminded as one bounces from pommel to saddle back of the humps on the camel. But these are soon forgotten in the sights that can be seen. What a treat it was to ramble along in Indian file behind our guide. Sometimes our way led through the forest with the sun winking at us between the tree tops and the squirrels scolding at these unknown intruders, sometimes beside, sometimes crossing the little chattering stream, sometimes high up where the view spreads out in one great sweep before and behind, while above us stood the mountain peak

"With snows eternal
Muffling its summit,
And silence ineffable."

Browning knew the trail riders thoughts when he said:

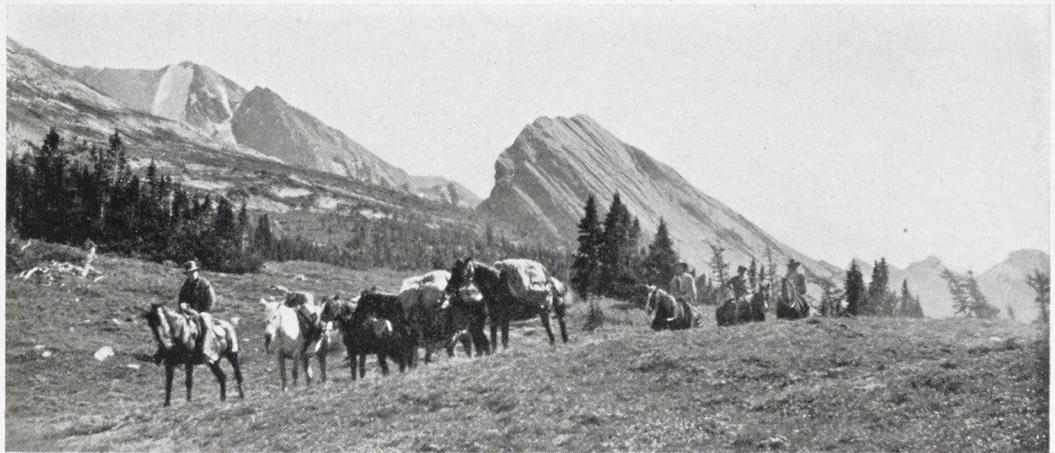

"Those mountains - their infinite movement
Still moving with you.
For, ever some new head and breast of them
Comes into view."

In this heaven of ours the cameraman did the shooting—and what a bag was his. You might suspect that the only biting was done by mosquitoes. But wait till you see the trout. In one little dark green lake where four or five lines were cast I really believe the fish were contending for the privilege of biting first—I must admit I did see one disconsolate fisherman on failing to arouse any interest among the trout proceed to eat the bait himself! However as the latter was a very healthy piece of flapjack and the stream decidedly swollen and muddy, one may perhaps allow for his unusual behaviour.

"Come 'n' get it!!" The only supper gong we ever needed. You would have been as amazed at the tin plate's capabilities as we were at our own capacities. You will own you never tasted such fish as the ones you caught yourself, nor I think were there ever such meals as "Cookie" could cook. Evening, and a roaring campfire, sparkling in the darkness like a star in its heaven, the riders faces if possible ruddier than ever in its warm glow, the leering black shadows leaping wildly beyond, the sense of isolation such as one feels in mid-ocean, all these brought us mentally close together as we gathered round. Now came the rhythmic ring of the guitar and a voice proclaimed its owner to be "just a Yodelling Cowboy". What songs Wilf Carter could sing us! A mug of hot cocoa as the night grew colder and away we crept to our teepee's fireside. Just imagine yourself lying on a bed of fragrant spruce boughs, rolled in a big rough blanket and watching the smoke from the last embers as it curls out through the opening in the teepee roof and loses itself among the stars up there; until "lulled by the coil of the crystalline streams" you dont know where your day ends and your dreams begin.

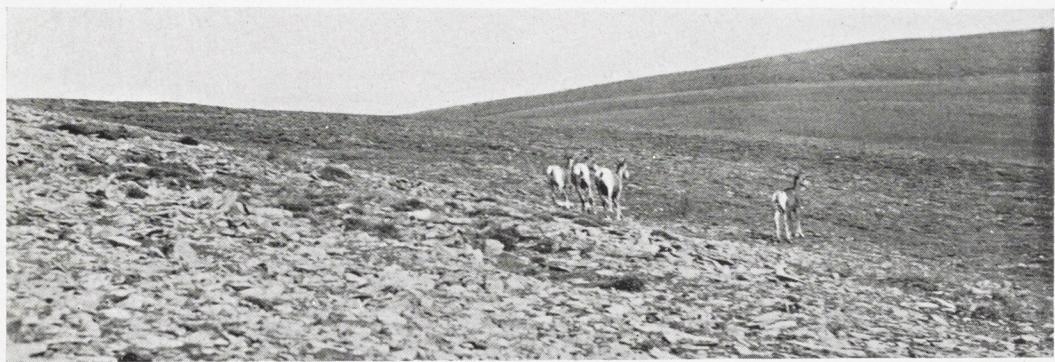

Oh, so many new thrills await you on a trail ride—your first plate of flapjacks (invariably succeeded by another), your first dip in the icy stream, your first bite (trout not mosquito), your first breathless discovery of bear and moose prints on the trail, your first glimpse of the latter animal as he prances through the grass like a hackney in a horse-show. How you will laugh when I tell you my first attempt to stalk a wild animal. One evening a group of us were fishing about three quarters of a mile from the camp. Darkness fell very quickly, so we soon found ourselves creeping home through the blackest forest I ever hope to see. Suddenly we were aware of an almost imperceptible rustling nearby. We strained our eyes and saw a little white spot some 5 yards away and about 3 feet above the ground. "White-tailed deer" whispered the naturalist of the party as we crept closer. The spot moved to the ground as though friend deer was about to sit down; then it rose again. A twig cracked and there came a loud "Neigh-eigh", and our little white spot instead of being the tail light of a deer was the head light of a grazing horse.

On the fourth day out we climbed very high in order to cross a pass. As we crept along the rocky slide with the misty blue upon blue of the mountains deepening in the distance, I drew a breath for I knew this was heaven. Surely here, where the rainbow ends and drops her colours on the gorgeous mount in flowers, here was the place to worship the Creator. Nature had built her Cathedral. For the stained glass she gave her glowing sunset, for incense came the gentle perfumes of the flowers, for pillars there stood these towering pines, for her altar stood the rocky peak hewn into architectural splendour by the Maker Himself and laid with a white cloth of purest snow. Beside me dropped the waterfall of baptism. Which among us was not deeply stirred?

And so this summer:—

*"If thou art worn and hard beset
With sorrows that thou wouldst forget
If thou wouldst read a lesson that will keep
Thy heart from fainting and thy soul from sleep
Come to the woods and hills! No tears
Dim the sweet look that Nature wears!"*

The mountains are calling calling you all.

*"Minrewawa", say the pine trees
"Mudwayanshka", say the waters
"Come 'n' get it", says the cook.*

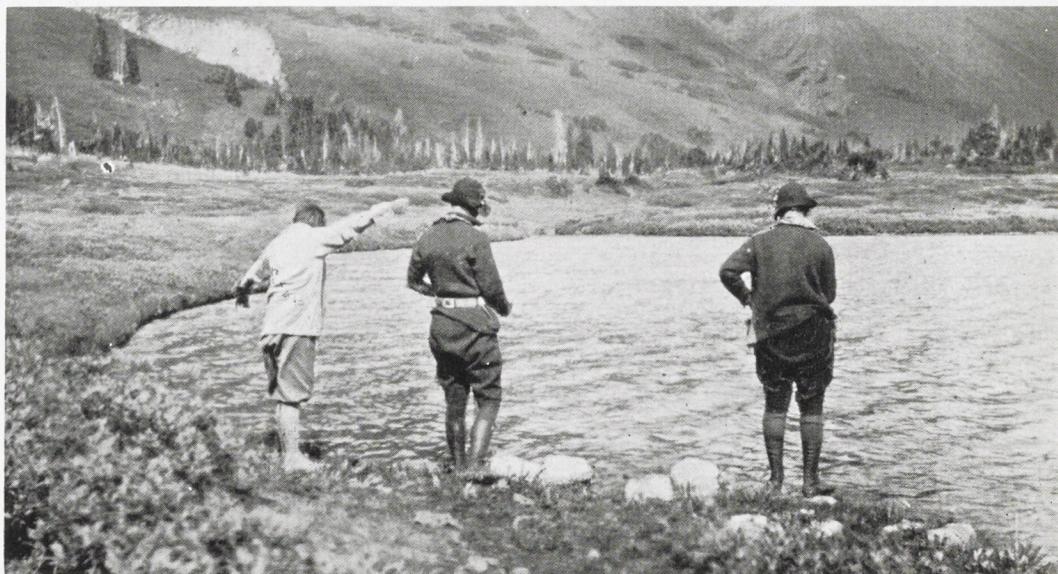

So if you want a glimpse of heaven "Come 'n' get it" !!

TRAIL RIDING FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thrilling Experience of Sir Herbert Holt

One of the outstanding figures in Canadian industry today is Sir Herbert Holt, Chairman of the Royal Bank, President of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company and director of many other companies. In the early days of construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, he was H. S. Holt, chief Engineer on the Mountain division, and as such did a considerable amount of trail riding in the Kicking Horse Pass and over Rogers Pass. An exciting trail-riding experience is recorded in Col. S. B. Steele's entertaining books entitled "Forty Years—Canada" (McClelland and Stewart, Toronto). Sir Herbert in the spring of 1884 was riding on the trail from the head of the Kicking Horse to the Columbia River and his horse shied:

"He was riding a spirited bronco which he had used on the plains and which had no experience of mountain trails. Instead of backing up she started forward and hit Mr. Holt in the chest, knocking him over the side of the canyon, which at that point was perpendicular and about 75 feet from the trail to the river below. In falling he turned a complete somersault, landing on his stomach on the trunk of a dead tree which had been caught in the rocks on the side of the canyon. The distance was afterwards measured, and tree was found to be 27½ feet below the trail. The horse and the stone on which she slipped, which must have weight at least 800 pounds, also fell over the cliff, but fortunately fell clear of the tree in which Mr. Holt had lodged, and both fell to the bottom of the canyon.

When the rest of the party came up, they lowered to Mr. Holt a lariat, which he tied under his arms, and they pulled him up to the trail. Looking down he saw the horse lying on the rocks below; thinking her leg was broken and being unable to get down the perpendicular wall of the canyon, he concluded that it was best to shoot her and proceeded to carry his idea into execution. He succeeded in putting five bullets of his revolver into the horse's head without touching a vital spot. The animal then struggled to her feet and fell into the river, which was at that season and all Summer a raging torrent, and was carried down about half a mile to the opposite shore.

The next day Mr. Holt sent his packers back to try to recover the saddle and bridle and some papers which were in the saddle bags. They found the horse lying on the rocks with one eye shot out, three ribs broken and one leg almost cut off. As they knew that the animal was a favourite with its owner, they built a shelter of brush over the poor beast and made her as comfortable as possible. When it was reported to Mr. Holt, he sent them back with some oats and gave instructions to them to feed the poor animal and give her a chance to recover, which, wonderful to relate, she did. She was sent to Mr. Holt's ranch for a year, and when the Alberta Field Force was raised for the suppression of the rebellion I saw a man, who had been employed as a mail carrier in the Rockies, in the ranks of the Alberta Mounted Rifles, riding a one-eyed horse, which he informed me, and so did others, was the animal which went over the canyon with Mr. Holt."

TRAIL RIDING IN NEW ZEALAND

Here is an extract from the record of a Trail Ride in New Zealand by one of our members, the Rev. Robert W. W. Alexander, of the Vicarage, Murchison:—

"I got up at 5 a.m.—was on the road at 6 a.m., having groomed and fed my beautiful mare "Stella", and rode through 40 miles to Station Creek in the Upper Marine, near the Foothills of the Southern Alps. I had to pass over what is called a Saddle nine miles long, covered with virgin bush, mostly New Zealand birch, very steep and with dangerous drops below in places. The songs of the Bell birds, the Tices and Moccas were most entrancing, their bell notes are wonderful. The two species of cuckoo which come here from Australia were also to be heard—the long-tailed cuckoo, with its cuckoo ending in a sharp whistle, and the shining cuckoo with its soft note; it is a ventriloquist and sounds quite near when really far away. Then Parraqueets with a red bar across the bill and a yellow or red head, always accompanied by the little bush canaries. These parraqueets are larger than love birds and can be taught to talk. They make a noise in the bush like the snipping of scissors. Then there are the bush robins, with brown or black jackets and yellow breasts, about the size of the English robin, very tame and will sit on your hand. At the foot of the Saddle one enters the Marnia Valley; on the right hand, the bush covered Foothills of the Southern Alps; on the left hand side, the high snowclad tops of the Spencer Range; in the centre the Marnia River very swift and dangerous—large grass lats on either side—valuable for sheep and cattle. Next morning I left the boarding house at 7.30 a.m. and rode onwards for 12 miles to Springs Junction, where the Rahu River and Marnia join and where the Valley opens very widely and where both the Spencer and Victoria Ranges of mountains can be seen; also Marble Hill composed of grey marble and covered with bush close to the Marine Hot Springs where there is a hostel and baths (sulphur) for people with rheumatism. The scenery here is wonderful. Then rode on for four miles neath virgin bush on the Reefton or West Coast Road and turned in by a gate to a lane amidst lofty birches. I rode on for 3 miles and forded the Brown-Grey Creek twice and came to V. Palmer's house. here I had dinner and admired the mountain daisies and lilies, most beautiful plants which grow there. I then went on, on a rough track for a mile, till I reached the Big Grey Creek which runs out of Lake Christabel at a tremendous pace, so "Stella" found it quite hard to cross, and then rode for seven miles under the most wonderful avenue of trees, the ground was covered with moss and the most beautiful ferns, tree ferns, Prince of Wales Feathers, Harts tongues, Gedums, Polypods, Maiden

Hair, etc., etc. I also noticed two Paradise ducks which make an unlovely sort of quack, but have beautiful plumage, up in a high tree, sitting on a bough—like two Pigeons, they lap their eggs in hollows in the trees and when the young hatch out get them on their backs and fly down to the water with them. I forded 7 Creeks and on my right ran the Big Grey River: the stones are a kind of grey granite—at length the Trail wound out into a wide flat, with bush on the outskirts and a semi-circle of mountains round it—Mount Hatz, a rugged cone, being the most noticeable. I had reached my destination—it was a most enjoyable trail ride! I was welcomed in true New Zealand fashion, I being the only person ever to have ventured in. The scenery reminds me of the Foothills of the Rockies, only less grand."
